SESSION DESCRIPTIONS

The ACE Study

Dr. Michael Brumage

The most influential study most people have never heard about. The Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACE) Study has profound effects for public health. The ACEs study is based on a large study done with over 17,000 beneficiaries at Kaiser Permanente. It demonstrates profound effects between the experience in early childhood and diseases throughout the lifetime. This overview will talk about the original ACEs study and data collected in WV and why that is important to all of us.

Martinsburg Initiative

Chief Maury Richards

The Martinsburg Initiative is an innovative partnership that has developed a model solution to the problem of opiate addiction and abuse. Spearheaded by the Martinsburg Police Department and the Berkeley County Schools; the new partnership includes an array of community, faith-based, health, and law enforcement leaders and organizations. Through a strategic focus that targets at-risk children and troubled families, the initiative will assess, identify, and eliminate the basic causes of drug abuse. Founded upon a school-centered and family-based approach, The Martinsburg Initiative will build strong families and empower communities.

Emerging Drug Trends

Chad Napier

The primary focus of this presentation will be new and emerging drug trends across Appalachia. These drug trends present an increasing threat to children. This presentation will include information on the abuse of these substances by caregivers, which could result in more ignored, abused, and abandoned children. The education of professionals from a variety of disciplines about these ever-changing drug trends will increase the likelihood that the indicators of abuse of new substances can be identified earlier, thus diminishing the threat to children.

Reinvesting in Families

Cheryl Chandler and Cpl. Errol Randle

Ms. Chandler and Cpl. Randle will highlight programs at Mt. Olive Correctional Center and the Charleston Police Department. "The Olive Tree" and "Reinvest West" are programs that assist with offender's transitions back into the community and their families in a way that increases public safety, reducing recidivism, and makes better use of scarce resources in correctional centers and communities.

Sex, Money & American Kids

Elizabeth Scaife

An overview of the victimization of America's children through commercial sex enterprises, including victim profiles and vulnerabilities, recruitment tactics used by traffickers, and the life-changing impact of trauma on victims.

Human Trafficking in WV

Brian Morris

Sex trafficking is a form of modern slavery that exists throughout the United States, globally and in West Virginia. Sex traffickers use violence, threats, lies, debt bondage, and other forms of coercion to compel adults and children to engage in commercial sex acts against their will. Under U.S. federal law, any minor under the age of 18 years induced into commercial sex is a victim of sex trafficking—regardless of whether or not the trafficker used force, fraud, or coercion. The situations that sex trafficking victims face vary dramatically. Many victims become romantically involved with someone who then forces or manipulates them into prostitution. Others are lured in with false promises of a job, such as modeling or dancing. Some are forced to sell sex by their parents or other family members. This session will provide an overview of human trafficking in West Virginia including statutes and reporting.

Interviewing Human Trafficking Victims

Sgt. Talia Divita

Patience, building rapport, establishing trust is key to working with victims of human trafficking. This session will provide basic interviewing technics when encountering potential human trafficking victims and offer insight into offender characteristics.

Survivor's Inc.

Jennifer Kempton

Jennifer Kempton is a survivor of human trafficking who uses her experience to promote awareness and advocate for social change. During her horrific time on the streets she was branded and sold by her abusers. After obtaining her freedom, these marks became constant reminders of her abuse until she was given a gift of a tattoo cover-up. The liberation she experienced through covering her brands inspired her to found Survivor's Ink.

Dr. Michael Brumage

Michael Brumage, M.D., M.P.H., F.A.C.P. is the Executive Director of the Kanawha-Charleston Health Department as well as Health Officer for Kanawha County and Putnam County, West Virginia. He is the Co-Chair for the nascent West Virginia ACEs Coalition. Dr. Brumage received a Bachelor of Science degree in chemistry (cum Laude) from West Virginia University in 1982 and graduated from the West Virginia University School of Medicine in 1986. He received his Master of Public Health in Epidemiology from the University of Washington in 2003. He is board certified in Internal Medicine and Preventive Medicine and is a Fellow of the American College of Physicians. He is an Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine in the West Virginia University School of Medicine, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Medicine, as well as Adjunct Faculty in the West Virginia University School of Public Health in the Department of Social and Behavioral Sciences. He is a consultant to the West Virginia University Department of Intercollegiate Athletics where he has worked with members of the WVU football team, teaching mindfulness attention training. Dr. Brumage recently retired as a Colonel after a 25-year career in the U.S. Army Medical Corps. A native of Fairmont, West Virginia, Dr. Brumage is married to Nataša, a pharmacist at

Women's and Children's Hospital, and has 4 children: Maia, Gabriel, Nicholas, and Nina.

Cheryl Chandler

Cheryl Chandler is the executive assistant to the Warden at Mt. Olive Correctional Complex in Fayette County WV, a position she has held since 1998. She started her career as a correctional officer at the penitentiary in Moundsville in 1994. When the penitentiary closed in 1996, she transferred to Mt. Olive and was promoted to internal investigator. Along with her many duties at the prison, she also works on reentry projects under the direction of Commissioner Rubenstein.

Sgt. Talia Divita

Sgt. Talia Divita has been a member of the West Virginia State Police for over 13 years and is currently assigned to the West Virginia State Police's Crimes Against Children Unit as an investigator. During these 13 years, she has investigated several hundred criminal offenses. These offenses have included the trafficking of child pornography, use of minors in the production of child pornography, sexual solicitation of children via the Internet, child sexual exploitation, child sexual abuse, child sexual assault and criminal use of the Internet and computers. Sgt. Divita has completed the West Virginia State Police Cadet Training Program. She has attended specialized training courses and received education through colleges and universities including Fairmont State College (Bachelor in Criminal Justice) and Marshall University (Associate in Police Science). Sgt. Divita has been assigned to the WV ICAC (Internet Crimes Against Children) Task Force through the West Virginia State Police since 2009. This Task Force is responsible for investigating cases involving the sexual exploitation of children via the internet.

Jennifer Kempton

A true survivor of human trafficking, Jennifer Kempton uses her experience to promote awareness of the issue and to advocate for social change. During her time on the streets, she was formally branded and sold by her abusers. After she gained her freedom, these brands became constant reminders of the abuse. Then, she received the gift of a cover-up tattoo. The feeling of liberation she experienced through that first de-branding inspired her to start Survivor's Ink. Survivor's Ink provides cover-up tattoos/removals to survivors of human trafficking, as well as ongoing assistance with connection to resources to support survivors to rebuild their lives. Through consistent street outreach to currently enslaved individuals, Survivor's Ink has provided place-
